UNIVERSITY

ANNUAL REPORT, SIMONE DE BEAUVOIR INSTITUTE, 1993-94

During the June 1, 1993 to May 31, 1994 period, the Institute has undergone considerable changes and improvements in the following areas:

1) Administration:

1a) Principal: Dr. Marianne G. Ainley's appointment as Principal of the Institute and Director of the Women's Studies Programme has been extended until May 31, 1994.

1b) Support Staff: The Institute's support staff shared in the additional administrative burden imposed by the recommendations of the Faculty Appraisal Committee. In addition to their usual workload, they had to organize and take detailed notes for transcripts of more than twenty committee meetings (Curriculum and Ad-Hoc Re-structuring). The additional tasks meant that members of the support staff had to fill in for each other in order to ensure that the work of the Institute, as a College, is completed.

Programme Secretary Belinda Bowes was the staff representative at 10 curriculum meetings and 10 restructuring meetings (45 hours), and spent 338 hours preparing transcripts of these meetings. She also spent 42 hours on a survey on Women at Concordia doing Feminist Research, and helped prepare one major research grant for the full-time faculty. In addition, Belinda participated in training sessions in preparation for the new telephone registration system (CARL) and for her new role as academic adviser.

Assistant to the Principal Di-Anne Robin served as a Union Representative for the support staff union CUSSA and was on the Arts and Science Status of Women committee. Di-Anne also attended a university workshop on cutting costs.

In addition to being an Institute Secretary/Receptionist, Susan Sullivan is the secretary for the Documentation Centre. She writes a bi-monthly Newsletter for Institute members, helps organize the Fellows seminars, manages the Institute's 167 subscribers, (events, reading room, Bulletin, and reprints). She also helps prepare research proposals for the full-time faculty (13 in 1993-94), and wordprocesses the Bulletin (approximately 150 pages), the Institute's annual publication.

2) Documentation Centre: The Reading Room and Documentation Centre under the direction of part-time Documentalist Carol Mitchell had a very busy and productive year despite facing serious space and time constraints. Several volunteers donated their time to catalogue a backlog of periodicals. The Documentation Centre again obtained the services of a student through the work-study programme. Janet Salter was hired for both terms. Please refer to Appendix A.

3) Faculty Personnel: There were no changes in faculty personnel.

4) Membership: Because the re-structuring of the Institute is in progress, the membership consisting of the Resident Fellow, Associate Fellows, Research Associates and Visiting Fellows have been extended until May 31, 1994. For the list of Fellows and Research Associates, see Appendix B.

5) Student enrolment and participation: In 1993-94, including the summer of 1994, the Institute offered 20 courses and 4 tutorials to a total number of 567 students, equalling 1701 student credits. Our courses are 3 credit courses. On the average there were seven courses of 50 students and the rest had about 20-25 students. The enrolment in the various Women's Studies programmes was as follows: Major: 182, Minor: 17, Certificate: 9, for a total of 208 students. There were approximately 35 inquiries concerning Concordia graduate programmes in Women's Studies.

The following Women's Studies students received recognition for their outstanding academic work:

Alison Carpenter received the Thérèse F. Casgrain medal. This medal is awarded to the most outstanding graduating student in Women's Studies.

Denise Michelle Brand
+ Kirsten Best received the Provost Entrance Scholarship. This scholarship is for first year students.

Alison Carpenter received the Maïr Verthuy Scholarship. This scholarship is awarded to the most outstanding student entering her third year of Women's Studies.

The following Women's Studies students graduated with distinction: Alison Carpenter, Ariel Fielding and Avis Anderson. In addition to attending courses and being involved in the intellectual life of the Institute, the students have been actively involved in the Women's Studies Students' Association. Additionally, students have been active participants in the Ad Hoc committee for the re-structuring of the Institute in accordance with the recommendations of the Faculty Appraisal Committee. Students take a great interest and pride in the activities of the Institute and are concerned about the future of Women's Studies, feminist research and feminist practice. Student representatives participated in the various committees of the Institute.

6) Programmes and curriculum development: This year, the Curriculum Committee met ten times. It concentrated on planning the first stage of curriculum changes as recommended by the Faculty Appraisal Committee. The proposed changes were accepted by the Arts and Science Faculty Council on May 6, 1994. Work on the second stage of curriculum changes will begin in August 1994.

7) Ad Hoc Committee for the Restructuring of the Institute: Upon the recommendation of the Faculty Appraisal Committee, an Ad Hoc Committee for the Re-structuring of the Institute was formed in September 1993. Between November 1993 and the end of May 1994, the committee met ten times. Seven of these meetings were chaired by Principal Marianne Ainley. In accordance with the recommendations of the Faculty Appraisal Committee a mediator was appointed by the Dean to help conclude the process of re-structuring. Dr. Marguerite Mendell, Principal of the School of Community and Public Affairs, participated and facilitated the process during the last three encounters. While this process has not yet been concluded, significant steps have been made toward a more appropriate governing and committee structure of the Institute.

8) Research Seminars and Public Events

8a): Under the direction of Research Associates Dr. Barbara Meadowcroft and Dr. Sima Aprahamian, members of the Institute and of the Montreal and Ottawa scholarly community participated in two seminar series: Feminist Biography/Autobiography and Research Seminars. Appendix C.

8b) The Simone de Beauvoir Institute held 18 events, with an average attendance of 26 people. For each event, promotional material was mailed to 200 locations and to 35 paid subscribers. Many of the Institute's events (lectures, book launches,) received financial contributions from the following organizations: Visiting Lecturers Committee of Concordia University; the Loyola Peace Institute; Lonergan University College; Science College; the Faculty of Arts & Science; the Vice-Rector's office; the Departments of Sociology and Anthropology, Biology, l'études françaises; as well as from the South-Asian Women's Community Centre; The Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds; Département de criminologie de l'Université de Montréal; and the McGill Centre for Research and Teaching on Women. See Appendix D.

9) Outside Representations: The faculty and fellows of the Institute attended many national and international workshops and conferences. These outside representations allowed scholars at other institutions to become acquainted with the work of the Institute. See Appendix E.

10) Service--Internal and External: Members of the Institute have continued to serve on a variety of Institute and Concordia University committees. They have also been involved with a number of outside organizations. See Appendix F.

11) Publications--external: Books, chapters, articles and reviews by members of the Institute have appeared in a variety of international and Canadian publications. See Appendix G.

12) Publications--internal: The Bulletin of the Institute is now an annual, refereed publication. Vol. 13 (1993), "Folktales, Myths and Modern Fiction: Female Stereotypes Revisited," edited by Dr. Kaarina Kailo, featured many articles by Women's Studies students. For a complete list of the Institute's publications, see Appendix H.

13) Grants: During the 1993-94 academic year, the Principal and the full-time faculty at the Institute obtained $382 400.00 in grants (of this $246 200.00 are team grants). The total of grants received by all members of the Institute is $857 973.00. For a complete list of grants, see Appendix I.

14) Promotional: The Institute's Faculty, Fellows, and Research Associates continued to provide the local, national, and international oral and print media with resource comments on news events. Faculty, Fellows, and Research Associates spoke in classes and lent their expertise to students' projects.

The Institute supported the University's College Days promotion. The Principal and staff members visited CEGEPS' on career days.

A new public relations flyer became available this spring and is mailed, along with the department's undergraduate course booklet, in response to inquiries from the general public.

The Institute's lounge was used by outside community groups on 38 occasions, and for other Concordia groups on 31 occasions.

The Institute has also received an increase in the number of inquiries from social services agencies, C.L.S.C.'s, hospitals, and women's centres about what resources and information we have that can be made available to women.

Gifts and Donations

We received several hundred periodicals from The Women's Centre on St. Urbain St. after they closed their Periodicals Room due to lack of space. Many of the periodicals are related to gay and lesbian material and others focus on women's concerns and should prove invaluable for our collection. To the best of our knowledge no other library in Québec and possibly Canada has this material. Some of the journals have replaced missing ones in parts of our collection. We also received two, much-needed, metal bookcases and dozens of plastic magazine boxes.

Concordia and other Donations

Dr. Susan Russell, (Sociology), donated several books from her collection. Gender Balancing History, a bibliography compiled by Dr. Rosemarie Schade et al (History) is proving extremely useful. Nilima Mandal-Giri (Research Associate at Simone de Beauvoir Institute) donated a bibliography on Women in South Asia. Several books have been sent to us by guest speakers and authors who have lectured at the Institute. Students have also been generous in their book donations to the Reading Room. Lanie Melamed (Leisure Studies) wishes to donate much of her collection to the Reading Room as she is moving from a house to an apartment.

Due to the conversion to CLUES by the main libraries, we were able to obtain a wooden card catalogue cabinet to replace the metal drawers previously used. We also upgraded our furniture with some of Webster's cast-offs: Six chairs for the Reading Room tables, one executive-style desk chair for the documentalist and a small plastic (service) book cart thanks to Dr. Bonin who suggested we might find some useful items at Webster.

Our collection of government documents has grown. Material from the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women, Canada Health and Welfare and from the Status of Women is received regularly as are documents from CRIAW and from the provincial governments with the emphasis on Québec. We have also received donations of UNESCO material and material from early courses given by the Institute.

Work Study Programme

For the past few years the Reading Room has hired a student assistant for a maximum of 12 hours per week for 12 weeks each semester. Janet Salter (Women's Studies and Psychology) worked at this position for the 1993-1994 year and did an excellent job. (It should be noted, however, that quite a bit of time is required for training so not all the hours are productive.) Half of the funds for this come out of the salary allotted for the documentalist and the other half from the Work Study Programme. This enables us to keep the Reading Room open for approximately 27 hours per week during most of the semester. However, during the first two weeks and last month of each semester the hours are reduced as there are no funds to pay a student for the additional hours. This is insufficient to meet the students' demands and closing the Documentation Centre during July and August seriously hampers summer students, visiting scholars and members of the community who can only use the Simone de Beauvoir Institute during the summer months.

Fieldwork Placement

For the first time, a student from the Library Studies Programme has been placed in the Reading Room as a stagiaire. This has proved beneficial for both the Institute and the Library Studies Programme. Muriel Ward worked on several projects for the Reading Room including assigning subject headings to articles and filing them, listing contents of vertical files enabling easier access to articles, entering call numbers on loan cards to facilitate new circulation system and processing books for cataloguing.

Volunteers

Joan Kohner, retired documentalist for the Reading Room, came in frequently during the year to assist. Although students have often offered to help in the Reading Room, this is not always feasible because of the time needed to train them. However, the following deserve special recognition for their volunteer time: Janet Salter, donated several hours to the Reading Room both before and after she worked as assistant. She showed great initiative. Two ex-Concordia graduates, David Mitchell and Laurie Mitchell, who had been laid off from their positions, donated many hours to the Reading Room and made a list of the contents of the fifteen boxes of periodicals.

David S. Mitchell, who has library and organizational experience, helped to sort and pack the periodicals at the Women's Centre and helped to unpack and classify them once they arrived at Simone de Beauvoir Institute. He also spent many hours moving and re-shelving books on the bookcases we received.

Laurie Mitchell, a corporate librarian, came in on a regular basis for several months. She acted as a consultant, submitting many excellent written suggestions to improve the efficiency of the Reading Room. She also organized the periodicals project, laying out a step-by-step procedure for student volunteers to follow once the first stage of the project had been completed by herself and David Mitchell.

Women's Studies students Diane Bélanger and Laliv Clenman have sorted and merged the periodicals donated. This is extremely time-consuming work and would not have been possible without their help. At present, the periodicals (with the exception of single issues) are on the shelf and a master list is being compiled by Kim Jones, a student with a lap-top computer. For the first time in several years an up-to-date list of serials will be available.

Visitors

There have been approximately twenty visitors to the Reading Room over the past year. Dr. Roy Bonin, Concordia's Director of Libraries, responded to an invitation and showed great interest and made helpful suggestions. Other visitors included Annette Teffeteller, Chair of Modern Languages (Concordia), Lonnie Weatherby, Senior Reference Librarian (McLennan Library, McGill), Anne M. Galler, Library Studies (Concordia), representatives Hadas Lahav et al from CEAP, an organization for Women and Democracy in the Middle East, librarians and scholars from Sweden, Germany, India, Australia, United States, as well as from other parts of Canada. The Reading Room is also frequented by students from McGill, Université de Montreal and several CEGEPs.

Reserves

A new system has been implemented since January. All reserves are now kept in separate boxes at the Documentalist's desk and students must request them there. This affords more control and there is less chance of material being misfiled.

Miscellaneous

Several bookshelves have been exchanged for narrower ones thus saving a few inches on each side of the Reading Room and affording more space for those working at tables. Circulation now files loan cards in call number order. This makes it easier and quicker to renew and locate books.

*Reference questions are frequently received from the community, both local and from other provinces. Callers often phone or visit the Reading Room as a last resort to find material unobtainable elsewhere. Questions range from requests for assistance with compiling an inventory on violence against women from a librarian at Okanagan University College, B.C.; how to find speakers on abortion issues for a local group; attitudes of the media towards native women for a local caller; information on women in the Gabriella Movement in the Philippines (one of the journals received from the Women's Centre is entitled Gabriella and is on this issue) for a McGill student, to how to find a recent video on single mothers for the psychiatric department of a local hospital.

Students with overdue books are no longer officially fined but are given the option of voluntarily contributing to the Reading Room. Students have not been informed that fines are no longer being levied and therefore think they are being singled out for special treatment and are grateful. This has worked well and saves time previously spent in telephoning and making lists of delinquent users to give to the main office. Financially, we are at least breaking even and have far less aggravation.

All patrons using the Reading Room are now asked if they would care to fill out and sign a form saying that they accept responsibility for lost or damaged material. None have refused. The notice telling patrons to leave their bags in the documentalist's office has been removed.

Concerns

Despite requests there is still no satisfactory alarm or panic button available for the Reading Room. This is essential as the location is isolated and often there is only one person working in the building, especially in the evening.

We are rapidly running out of space despite using cupboards and a bathroom for storage. There is also some concern that eventually the weight distribution of the collection may prove too much for the present premises. Ideally, we need at least one more room.

As the Reading Room is not automated, Susan Sullivan spends several hours per week doing the necessary secretarial work. She handles telephone inquiries when the library is closed, makes lists of new holdings, prepares cheque requisitions, writes invoices, corresponds with publishers and prepares any necessary correspondence required by the documentalist.

Conclusion

After working for the past fourteen months as documentalist in the Reading Room it is clear that it is impossible to handle everything necessary in the fifteen hours a week allotted. During term time there are days when one is only able to assist students and answer the phone. Invariably, paper work falls behind, especially cataloguing. I am filled with admiration for the work that my predecessor, Joan Kohner, accomplished over the years and realize that she must have put in many extra unpaid hours. She is still appearing from time to time and taking books home to catalogue.

To run the Reading Room more efficiently, many more hours are needed. It seems foolish to keep on buying material when we have nowhere to put it and no one to process it. Our cupboards and office shelves are overflowing with books that await processing and cataloguing but even when this is accomplished there will be no place for them. Funds should be made available for proper bookshelves to replace the makeshift brackets and shelves which are filled to capacity, better lighting, more footstools, windows that open without difficulty and window frames that are not decayed and rotting.

The Simone de Beauvoir Institute has an international reputation. Its Reading Room deserves the same and merits the best quality possible to maintain it.
